Wed, June 11, 7-9pm

Wheels of Life (and Other Stories) The Freedom & Wonder of Travel by Bicycle

Meet the Samburu, Maasai and Turkana tribes in East Africa, the Mogul architecture in Rajasthan, the Dalai Lama in Andhra Pradesh, and the leaping lemurs of Madagascar.

Hop islands, peddle promontories, crawl up and fly down mountains in Hawaii, Thailand, Indonesia and the Japans...Join keith as travel writer and photographer for an evening of personal stories, philosophical insights and cultural commentary based on almost 20 years of bicycle adventures and non-adventures around the world.

Wed, July 16, 7-9pm

Portraits & Stories from Afghanistan (After Democracy)

Meet the people and travel the landscapes from Kabul to Mazar-Sharif; hear the stories of the people who have endured thousands of years of invasions. Join keith as award-winning war correspondent and photographer for a personalized glimpse into Afghanistan in times of the American war.

Wed, August 6, 7-9pm

Heart of Darkness: Another White Guy on the Congo River

From 2004 to 2007, keith repeatedly traveled to Central Africa to work (self-assigned) as a war correspondent and human rights investigator. This work took him by mountain bicycle and dug-out canoe deep into the Equatorial rainforest, where he eventually swam across two major tributaries of the Congo River before he attempted the Congo itself. Join keith for an evening of personal stories as the great white adventurer-conqueror following in the footsteps of journalist Henry Morton Stanley 100 years after King Leopold.
